To the Diplomatic Community in Washington DC

Your Excellency:

When no WMD were found in Iraq after the preemptive strike on Iraq in 2003, it became apparent that Saddam Hussein was attempting to comply with UN sanctions. The invasion of Iraq collapsed the US power base, and ripples of effects have gone out from the conflict. Several world leaders have started to jockey for power to see who will be the next superpower. They have taken their power games to the next level. This is backing mankind into the proverbial corner, with two untenable options. One is to go down into the power games of global war and genocide, and the other is to rely on the existing structure that is not solving the problems we are facing. The Covid pandemic, for example, keeps mutating with no end in sight.

The solution to every dilemma is to do what is in everyone's best interest. When backed into the corner by Donald Trump's maximum pressure policy, Kim Jong Un chose not to fight but instead to accept the offer to participate in the creation of the proposed international government, and the Olympics gave him the opportunity to be seen as equal to the other nations, the first requirement for conflict resolution.

The plan for the international government was leveraged to the level of the world leaders in 2011, and opened to debate. It is a viable third option because it benefits everyone and leaves no one out. By leaving no one out of the debate, solutions to crises can be found. Mankind is backed into the corner, and the plan for world peace is the third option, but what is missing is the application of the principle of equality.

One of our organization's exempt purposes is to purify the US legal system to prevent the chaos from our nation's failed policies from spreading chaos onto the international level. In November 2017 I sent a letter to the US Supreme Court explaining how a misunderstanding has caused chaos in our legal system. Universal Law will be the basis for the proposed international government's legal system, the only basis that can unify the planet, and so I am sending you a copy of the letter.

Yours for peace,

Karen Holmes,
Principal
