

Ebenezer Scrooge.

He was holding onto his wealth through the Game of Greed.

*He was pushing
away his family, and his humanity.*

*He feared
loss of security and support, because it was supposed to help him get his life,
but he also feared
loss of intimacy
and so he pushed away his humanity.*

Security and Capacity

Every person on the planet is born with a blueprint in his or her heart for the perfect life.

If our plan to create that life is based on power games, eventually we reach
a point where the games backlash on us,
and we don't see how we can get our life.

We are at the point of the Brick Wall.
We are 180 degrees from where we think we are.
We are holding onto what can't help us, and pushing away what can help us.

"What you hold onto becomes a chain
around your neck."

Even with the planning process, we come to the point where we must address the illusion that makes it seem we can't get our life.

Time to reassess where we are.

Let go of what you are holding onto.
Walk away from what is dragging you into the abyss.

But...

Don't let go of your family.
Don't let go of your project if it stands on the Principles of the Projects.

Let go of what you believe you need that will help you get your family back or to create your project.

There are no obstacles when we are doing what is in everyone's best interest.

You are just addressing a fear, of loss of security or support.
Face your fears and let it go.

Turn around and accept what you have been pushing away.

Then you must start to function on a higher level, addressing your capacity.

Walk forward and be the person you were born to be.
