

*Who Will Help Me
Get The Life I Desire?*

Children's Principles and Projects

On The Rainbow

Channeled messages from God
on how to overcome any crisis.

Who will help me?

You were born with a blueprint in your heart for the life that would be perfect for you, but traumatic events have come along and kicked you off course. In fact, lately you have been 180 degrees from where you wanted to be all along. You have been holding onto the people and things that can't help you and pushing away those you need to bring your dream life to fruition.

Our organization is unique because we have a mentoring program so that everyone on the planet has the opportunity to learn how to create your dream life. We are offering fifty innovative projects, each based on an important principle. A core group of people start the process, and ripple by ripple, people are drawn into them. Each ripple becomes more specific. It is up to the person who draws someone in to explain the principles of the projects. Then the student becomes the teacher to his or her own people. Eventually every person on the planet will learn the principles and will apply them to get his or her life. The organization also functions on an international level through the proposed international government to guarantee the rights of the people to do so.

To start the process, which is a foreign concept to most adults, we are introducing the fifty projects through the children. They are more empowered because they are less likely to have experienced so many traumas, are more likely to be still headed toward their goal, and will still work together. Then the children will teach the parents.

The traumatic events in the family have affected the children, too. It only takes gentle guidance by someone who understands what has knocked them off course to help them get back on track. It just takes looking at the problem from the wider perspective. But, once a child goes so far off course, he or she must continue on around the planning circle to undo and unlearn what sent him off course.

This is what most adults must do to create the life we want. We must face the point of the Brick Wall, where we are 180 degrees from where we think we are, and is the ultimate conclusion of our actions, and then take back responsibility and work to resolve the crises.

The traumas in our life motivate us to stand and assume responsibility to undo the damage we have done. Our first Social Conscience card says when you see oppression, you must stand and protest, but you must also know that you must assume responsibility to overcome the crisis and introduce a plan to allow everyone to function on a higher level or your voice will not be heard. Who will protest when you are doing what is in everyone's best interest? Everyone on the planet, including your family, would like to get their life on a higher level.

The teachers must stand and teach for world peace to come. You have all your talents and gifts and a lifetime of experience to fall back on, and you know what works and what doesn't work from your own area of expertise, but you also must stand on the principles of these projects, and all the teachings that have come through from the spiritual hierarchy—which can be found in our books.

Please note: One or both parents must be a member of the organization, or participating in the framework—sharing talents and gifts—for the child to participate in these classes. One parent must be working to help the children to get “off the bridge,” suspended between their parents without a foundation to get their life. To get your life, you must help them get theirs.

Children's Re-Empowerment Classes

Our fifty innovative projects will be introduced through the children because they understand the principles and enjoy working together on a project. Our Children's Re-Empowerment classes will be fun to watch, and even more fun for the children. Each class will introduce a project and one of the Planning Steps, and like ducks in a row, the children will walk forward to create the projects, mixing and matching their talents and gifts to bring the projects to fruition. They can apply what they have learned to create their own project.

First will come an overview of an idea, and then we will "storm the mountain," which is something like brainstorming. The children will build on each other's input. Whoever stands to defend a project—meaning assumes responsibility—will carry the project forward to fruition, with everyone else participating from his or her own area of expertise. There is no resistance to a project when everyone has input and the glitches are addressed in the Planning steps rather than during the actual creation of the project. (Most people do things backwards! We like to go forward to create a project.) The defender will work on the Plan, with lots of help from the other children, and then will create a PowerPoint presentation, offering the project to investors at our Inventor/Investors meetings.

Who wants to be a star?

Many people would love to see their name in lights, but this project is also for a good cause. We are making a movie—actually, a Unity Play—to teach people how to create the life they want. The children will produce, act and do whatever is necessary, including the financial aspects and filming, editing and set design, for the initial play and then the movie.

We will turn Brookings into our set, and invite people from town to participate in our extravaganza. It will be fun for everyone.

The play is a new genre, called a Unity Play. It entails 22 half-hour episodes, and then certain scenes will be taken from the play and turned into a full-length movie. It is a rags-to-riches play, and the actors and actresses will actually be following the script on a parallel level to create their life. In fact, you will see the projects they work on in our stores!

The DVDs will be sold through On The Rainbow Peace Store. The script will be translated into other languages and licensed to people and governments to apply the same idea in their country. One share of the proceeds from the productions will go to fund the the international government, and another share will be reinvested back into that country to create the projects we introduce in that particular nation, such as training new pilots in the Flight Mentoring Plan. ## Lift the Public Plan

Under the present structure, what does the future look like for our children and grandchildren? Something must be done to defend their rights to create their life. The “Lift the Public” project kick-starts the Global Renaissance by stimulating the creation of small businesses, functioning on the individual level. They can create their life by starting their own businesses and finding a niche.

The stagnant economy is causing many social programs to be cut. This plan allows the private sector to assume responsibility for the social programs. During hard times, more patents are filed than in good times in hopes of finding financial support. People have years of experience in their field and know what works and what doesn't work, but do not necessarily have the understanding to make their enterprises successful. The “Lift the Public” project teaches people how to create successful businesses, and enables them to procure the funding to do so.

Under the plan, any business can be partially or fully tax exempt. A merchant or service provider offers two prices, and the consumer chooses. The extra income from the higher, Lift the Public price goes to a program that teaches people how to start new businesses under the plan. The merchant can also donate merchandise to a Lift the Public shop to be offered free to the public. There is always the sense of reinvesting back into the local economy. But, it will go much further than the local economy because their vendors will also qualify for the tax exemption, and their vendors, also. This will lower the cost of doing business, resulting in lower costs for the consumers, and assuaging the fears of people who see and fear the impending financial collapse. Consumers have the power to uphold the economy by the choices they make while shopping.

Our organization helps people find their niche based on talents and gifts. Our goal is to enable everyone to have satisfying and fulfilling jobs.

Lift the Public Plan to be introduced at the Brookings/Harbor Azalea Festival

The economic stimulus is starting small, and then, like a chain reaction, getting larger, and will spin off and go onto a tangent until it draws in everyone. Our organization already functions as a Lift the Public non-profit organization; half of the profits are re-invested back into the projects we are developing and support. Everyone in the framework is equal, including the children.

Imagine, the children don't mind doing something small, and when they make a first step, it draws in their parents. The children will introduce the Lift the Public plan for the Global Renaissance to their parents and all their friends, and in the process, enable everyone to get a tax-exemption for their business, and a shop in town that offers free goods and services to allow everyone—even the homeless—to get their life on a higher level. And if you want to take one of those ideas for a business that has been sitting in the back of your mind for a while... attend the classes that teach you how to create a Lift the Public business. Take advantage of this plan, and allow the Lift the Public plan to continue to spread out until everyone is drawn into it.

Nothing starts out big. A movement starts out with a single individual, and continues to grow and expand when the plan is based on the highest good for all people. The second person to be drawn into a movement is just as important as the first one.

Conflict Resolution

Related To The Plan

Our organization is introducing the Grand Unification Principle—"All That Is," the scientific definition of "God"—and offering it to the theoretical mathematicians and physicists at Oxford University in England. They have the capacity to introduce the principle to the entire world. The idea has been brought down from the spiritual hierarchy, debated by the members of the organization, and those who have the capacity to carry it forward will work with the professors at Oxford.

The principle behind the idea addresses the general and the specific aspects. Science and Religion are meeting at the pinnacle of understanding; the principle can be addressed from either perspective. This is the basis for the international government: we are One.

Addressing the "whole" means you must also address the individual parts. To bring them together requires conflict resolution. This allows everyone to progress to the higher level, moving forward in a series of steps on the energy of the win-win agreements between the people involved until the crisis has been forgiven. "Forgiven" means as if the traumatic event never occurred.

The Conflict Resolution Plan involves introducing the Grand Unification Principle, which leads to ending the war in Iraq, and progressing step by step to the point where disputes are settled in a court situation rather than on the battlefield, and then to the creation of the international government. We are taking the current crisis—where we are now—deciding where we would like to be—the ideal situation—and making the steps to reach our destination.

Unity Play at the Full Training Session, and the Oxford and Stonehenge Trip

People have assumed the world's leaders will bring world peace, and have been frustrated that none of the world's leaders will sit down to write a treaty. The people on the top are not willing to listen. It is the children who will demonstrate how to bring world peace, and instead of a treaty, they will do the Unity Play.

We have to address both sides of the matter to introduce an idea. We are turning over the Grand Unification Principle to the professors at Oxford, because they have the credibility to take the idea out to the world and to teach it, but the Grand Unification Principle has already been found by the theologians. We are taking the plan for world peace to the governments, but the peoples of the world are the ones who have the power, and a government rules by the will of the people. We are taking the plan for the Global Renaissance to the powerful elite, but the people on the bottom know what works and what doesn't work because we have had to deal with oppressive results of the efforts of the powerful elite. The middle ground is where you do what is in everyone's best interest, and you leave no one out of the debate or the benefits.

Stonehenge has a remarkable history of conflict resolution. In ancient times, it drew people from all over the known world. Imagine that a war between two factions weakens the winner, making him or her vulnerable to attack from a third force, so it was imperative to find a "peaceful" solution to disputes. War is based on power games, the Game of Pride, and the game continues on until an innocent person is crucified. Imagine that the sacrifice of an innocent person meant that everyone would come away from the event with a far different perspective.

Let's stop to consider that our attempts to gain power and prestige have a profound effect on the lives of our children, and their lives are affected when there is conflict between their parents.

Multiply Your Money

If you can get the life you want by creating win-win agreements, it is possible to get anything you want, and you can work with anyone of the planet. After you decide what you want to create, you will come together with other people who have the same goal, and function under the Flower of Life pattern. You create a series of win-win agreements, and you are unlimited as to what you can create. This is working within the framework of our organization.

The framework of the organization allows you to multiply the resources and the talents and gifts of everyone involved. It is based on the Biblical concept of what you give, you get back ten times or a hundred times or a thousand times.

Our organization is introducing fifty revolutionary plans, and opening them to debate, but the same principles can apply to any project. You start out with a plan that benefits everyone, with others sharing the aspects. You use your talents and gifts to get the start-up capital. You may write a book, and half of the profits goes to fund the project, and then you tour the country, teaching and getting feedback. You have the expertise to advise the government on this new concept, and to resolve the government's problems. You purify the legal system on issues related to your area of expertise. Then you address the problems on an international level. You may teach in one of the Faith of the Pure Ray churches, working within a specific country to deal with a crisis they are facing, speaking from your own area of expertise. This is how we function as an organization.

Plan Review Board for the Flower of Life

When you create a plan for a project, it is far more than just coming up with a list of things you must do. Your plan may be as complicated as designing a skyscraper, and you must address every aspect of it. The stages and steps of the planning process allow you to address every aspect. You go around the planning circle several times to bring the plan to fruition. Each time around the circle makes the plan more likely to come to fruition.

The Plan Review Board looks at your plan to see if it stands on the principles of the projects, and if it addresses all the steps and stages of the planning process and resolves all the glitches. It would be similar to a physician being board certified to ensure that he or she meets the requirements of the position.

The Flower of Life concept involves drawing in people who have the same goal, and all working on an aspect of the project. It takes twelve people to come together to create a project—six men and six women. They create a twelve-pointed star, sharing a common goal. Lifepartners oppose each other on the star. Each is responsible for a different aspect of the plan.

When the founders retire from the plan, and move on to a new project, their children, those who stand on the same principles, then assume responsibility for the taking the project to the next generation, a concept we call the “Pure Ray.” They take the project to the next level in its evolution.

Lifepartnership Concept

Lifepartnerships were addressed in the first catalog, on how you will help each other resolve the conflict in your family. Here we go into the next stage, that of your business relationship—working to put your plan into action. “Business relationship” means getting the life you desire. You are not only helping your lifepartner end the conflict in his or her family, you are enabling everyone to get their life.

The man is the “potential” in the lifepartnership relationship. He is responsible for providing the start-up capital, to “prime the pump.” It is his responsibility to ensure that the plan stands on the principles of the framework, and addresses the glitches aspect of the plan, and to prevent his lifepartner from waging war to protect her assets. The woman is the “drive,” and it is her responsibility to decide what will be done with the assets. The children will also choose what they would like to do for their life project, and everyone will work as a team to bring it about. Everyone functions from their niche.

Drawing in each other’s children allows the lifepartners to also draw in their ex-spouses, and to enable everyone to function on a far higher level. The common goal is for everyone to get their dream life.

There are no inheritances under this plan, because if it takes twelve people to create a project, no one actually owns the project. No one will believe it is necessary for someone to die before creating their life. Everyone is working together on a common goal, to enable everyone to get their dream life.

Financial Board

After passing the stringent requirements of the Planning Board, and bringing your project to the point where it is functioning, then you can approach the Financial Board. Your plan must meet the contingency of the crisis, solve the root cause of the problem, and be a functioning plan to get the funding. You cannot get funding with just an idea. You must share your talents and gifts with others to get your funding.

The California Community Property law has created a crisis in the state, and amongst the families who have been torn apart by divorce and which face a financial crisis. Businesses have been sold to foreign investors, leaving the couple cash-rich and business-idea poor. The children are on the bridge. To recover from the crisis, the family must find their niche and help each other create the life they want.

This is one of the economic proposals to the U.S. government, but through the states rather than on a national basis. We do not have the credibility to assume responsibility for the entire global economy, but we can take our proposals to the people who do have the credibility and allow them to teach, and to demonstrate their capacity to solve the problem. The businesspeople whose lives were torn apart by this law can sponsor the projects we are introducing.

We will teach the children how to function within the Flower of Life pattern through the classes and the Unity Play, and that will draw the parents into the framework of the organization. One child will assume responsibility for a project, and create a plan for it with the help of the other children, and then present a PowerPoint presentation to the Financial Board, and then to the Investors at our Inventors/Investor parties. They will advise the children on creating the projects, knowing the plan is sound. This will function as a counterpoint to the Pure Ray concept, where the adults turn the projects over to the children.

Overview of the World Peace Plan

For world peace to come, every person on the planet must be able to create his or her life without interference, be treated fairly and equally, and to have a voice in his or her government. These are inalienable rights granted to us by the Creator of us all.

The U.S. Constitution and the cooperation of nature are the application of the inalienable rights, and the world peace plan extends the rights we, as Americans, enjoy, to all the peoples of the world. The economic aspect of the plan is based on the cooperation of nature. Nature enables a sense of abundance. It is only mankind's interference that prevents us from experiencing that abundance.

The framework of principles allow us to multiply our resources, and enables a global renaissance to come about. By sharing our talents and gifts with each other on the individual and international levels, it is possible for everyone on the planet to function on a far higher level.

The plan will spread like planting seeds; ripple by ripple, our teachings and projects will be offered. The students will become the teachers. Everyone will benefit from the projects because they solve the problems mankind is facing.

We have relied on certain segments of society to resolve our crises, such as the government, scientists, and the "powerful elite." But everyone has talents and gifts, and nations have natural resources to create win-win agreements. Each of us has an abundance of capacity to create our life. It is not based on wealth, or position, or intelligence.

Full Training Session

The Full Training Session will enable all 200 independent members of the organization to come together for the first time to prepare for the conference in Europe. Everyone has to work as a team, each responsible for his or her own aspect. Until this time, none of us has ever worked on such an elite level. We know what works and what doesn't work from our own area of expertise.

We start every meeting or conference with an opening reception, because food breaks down walls between people. Then every morning we start out with a lecture, followed by discussion on the topic of the lecture. We don't tell anyone what to do, but how to do it.

This event is the start of the ripple process. The evening of the opening reception, the children will perform the first five episodes of the Unity Play for their parents. The play depicts the evolution of a family as it goes from crisis to completion of their plan to get the life they want. The parents will watch their children demonstrate the principles as they work together to bring about the play, and then perform in it.

Then the classes on the Planning Process... The Miracles classes and demonstrations... The lectures that will be presented at the conference in Europe... Channeling a new book... Evening channeling sessions fielding questions from the audience... Dining etiquette and consultation by an image consultant... And the introduction and debate of the initial projects. That opens the door to the next level, which is the application of the plan through the classes and tours and advisory contracts.

Exorcism of Demons

Once you hit the brick wall, you have reached the point where the games you have played to get the life you want no longer work. At that time, a spiritual teacher comes into your life and explains to you why what you are doing isn't working. You always have three choices: to go up, down or straight ahead. If at any time you choose to go down into playing power games, you will face your demons.

Consider a demon to be someone who has been consumed by his or her fears. It is like an old man who is grumpy and cruel, and gets into a feud with the neighborhood kids because he keeps any baseballs that go into his yard, and the kids retaliate, and it devolves into a deeper and keeps degenerating until it is just revenge, and lasts generation after generation.

This crisis occurs when you have relied on creating the Illusion, and then an event occurs where you believe you can get the life you want. The person understands that he or she is a fake, and so begins to bounce back and forth because "success and fear of failure." You go up when you believe you have succeeded, and then down into this crisis.

We are introducing these classes for the children because they must be able to create their life, and having a parent in a mental institution is not their life.

Taking on the Fears Class

If you are facing your fears, and they overwhelm you, this is what leads to mental illness. You are being devoured by your fears. Your family is watching you sink deeper and deeper into the crisis. The problem is, no one can convince someone that what they are doing isn't working.

God never said anyone had to be in this kind of distress. The difference between Heaven and Hell is that in Heaven there is a solution to your problems.

Unempowerment comes from a crisis in the family. It is up to the family to help the person through their mental illness crisis.

We are offering Taking on the Fears classes to people who have loved ones facing mental illness, and then they will spin off through our "Taking on the Fears" manual to allow everyone to overcome this crisis. The children will assume responsibility for drawing their parent out of his or her crisis, and this gives them the power to overcome their own fears.

You have resolved the crises in your family,
and rocketed out of the abyss with your lifepartner.
You have worked on the conflicts in your life,
and now it is time to progress to the next level.

Everyone has created by default rather than intent.
In the third dimension, we have all played the games,
and in the process woven the Illusion.
To go on to create the life you want,
you have to start to undo the damage
you are responsible for.

But where do you start?
How do you know what you have done?

The answer is not to attempt to undo
every little thing you have ever done,
like running a movie in reverse.

(That will be necessary later as you work to undo the Illusion related to your project.)

The solution is to create a project,
using your talents and gifts,
which allows everyone to get their life
on a higher level.

You must work to fulfill your purpose in life,
which means you must start to help other people
to get the life they want.
You are working with Universal Law
rather than against it.

In this segment,
you come together with the people who share
the same goal as you,
and you start to create by intent.
You start to create your own project.

This catalog is designed for families that have been torn apart by conflict,
and would like to draw
everyone back together again
with a common goal.

If you don't have them already,
please be sure to request our
"Conflict Resolution" brochures,
or find them online.
They are the
"light at the end of the tunnel."
